Enrollment figures at Salem High school tell the story of the improvement in industrial conditions here. A decrease in the number of pupils at school means more at work according to Principal William J. Springer, and that's exactly the situation that exists in the high school today.

Fewer Post-graduates
For numerous boys have withdrawn from school as jobs became available at local industrial plants while an especially large reduction is noted in the enrollment of post-graduate students, Springer related. Where some time ago 50 post-graduates were enrolled at the school this number has decreased to 30.

Several boys, whose families are hard hit by conditions of past years are doing their best to help out at home are trying also to continue their studies on a part-time plan and school officials appreciating the ambitious efforts of the youngsters, cooperate with them to the fullest extent possible.

The 1934 graduation class, Springer revealed, will be 15 or so under the record-breaking figure of 1933 when 173 seniors were awarded their diplomas. At the present time 51 students are enrolled in the senior class, in good standing, while nine others are eligible for diplomas.

Enrollment Lower
Whether these latter will graduate hinges entirely on their scholastic work during the second semester.

The total enrollment for the high school is also under the 1932-33 figure in that the number of students regularly enrolled is now reduced to 820. The enrollment at the start of the current school year was in excess of 850.

Dave Won't Have To Play Third Fiddle Now; Gets Divorce

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, March 2.—David Hutton won't have to play "third fiddle" to Alvin Karpis, says a divorce court today.

He got it late yesterday, as, in his last battle, he told Judge Leon Yorkville his troubles.

The bitter pill he swallowed in the two years and six months of married life, it seemed, was Sister Alvin's announcement that his ability to run her racketeering empire was about equal to that of a switchboard operator.

"You might have expected in marrying a woman of your wife's fame that you would be expected to play second fiddle," the judge observed.

"Yes," Hutton replied, "but I want even second fiddle—it was less than that."

It even came to the point where they criticized his clothes.

"I guess they thought I dressed too goodly," he chuckled.

As he left the court with the decree in his pocket, a man served him with another paper. It informed him that Noland Tucker wants $500 damages. Tucker charges Hutton threw him out of the temple.

President Still Can Smile, Says A. P. Writer Who Has "Trailed" F. D. R. For Year

Mixes Work and Fun, Is Great "Kidder", and Has Same Air of Informality, Even After Busy Year

[Editor's Note: Since soon after the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, to the presidency, his daily actions have been reported for the Associated Press by Francis M. Stephenson. Here is his story of looking back over the eventful year that ends Sunday.]

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
WASHINGTON, March 2.—One year ago today Franklin D. Roosevelt, happy and confident, started from his Hyde Park, New York, home to assume the presidency and in that carefree way of his beckoned to the accompanying newspapermen to follow along on his history-making trail.

Busy Days Ahead
I venture none of us had any idea what busy days were in prospect, even when he told the nation on his inauguration day there was going to be "action."

At the end of the first year the same smile wreathes the presidential face and perhaps even more confidence pervades his conduct.

From the start, Franklin D. Roosevelt has given the impression of a man absolutely at home in the presidency.

If there has been any change, he is even more informal than ever.

Mr. Roosevelt mixes work and fun. A few minutes after quitting his desk he can be heard laughing and frolicking in the nearby swimming pool in a "ducking" contest with Gus Gennerich, his bodyguard.

He is a great "kidder" and his secretaries, Louis Howe, Marvin H. McIntyre "Steve" Early and Miss Margaret LeHand, are always on guard for a presidential joshing.

He is a careful reader of the newspapers, particularly those of his home state and New York City. Mr. Roosevelt invariably lingers in bed to eat breakfast.

Never Keeps To Schedule
The President gets to his desk in the executive office for official business about 11 o'clock. He may begin his engagements for the day on time but he never keeps to schedule except when he has to catch a train or make a speech.

Once in his office he goes right on through until 6 or 7 o'clock, invariably eating lunch from a tray on the desk, which he shares with whomever is the luncheon guest of the day.

Formal dinners are less frequent than usual. He doesn't like them.

Nights vary at the white house. There are occasional motion picture shows, as in the days of President Coolidge and Hoover. There are almost always house guests, usually friends of the family.

Mr. Roosevelt doesn't worry about speeches—doesn't seem to worry about anything—but he will put off writing a speech until the last possible moment. His addresses are rarely longer than 20 minutes and he has established a record in the brevity of his messages to congress—also a record in the number he has sent.

He's Had Busy Year
He dictates his own speeches and messages and rarely changes them once they are on paper.

Informality extends to his official correspondence.

It has been a busy year—the banking holiday, a special session of congress, abandonment of the gold standard, establishment of the NRA, and the agriculture adjustment administration, the London economic conference and war debts negotiations, the establishment of a new monetary system and more.

The hearty laugh still echoes out of the presidential office, the proclamations, executive orders and messages are coming just as fast as ever, and smiles still cover the faces of the presidential aides as they leave the conference room at the white house.

LaFatch, Jiamboi
Take Stand Today

James LaFatch and Joseph Jiamboi, Akron youths charged with highway robbery in the holdup of the People's Drug store in Salem almost a year ago, took the witness stand in their own behalf as their joint hearing was continued in common pleas court, Lisbon, today.

The state completed its case Thursday afternoon while the defense will be started prior to the submitting of the case to the jury of eight women and four men.

There was a possibility that the hearing will be recessed late today for reopening Monday morning.

Both LaFatch and Jiamboi denied participation in the holdup.

Need Strong Men, Minister Asserts

The need of strong men in these days—men who will stand fast in the faith of Jesus Christ, deep rooted and not shallow, was the keynote of a message given by Rev. C. H. Edgar, pastor of the Leontonia Methodist Episcopal church, to members of the Men's Bible class of St. Jacob's Reformed church, and their guests at a social meeting Thursday evening at the church north of Lisbon.

Rev. Edgar used for his Bible text, "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like me, be strong." 1 Cor. 16:13.

Fourteen members of the Leontonia High school band, under the direction of R. E. Fowler, furnished special music. A supper was enjoyed after the program. There were 65 in the company.

Tax Commission Shapes Program And Takes Recess

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—A tentative schedule legislation for filling the state's coffers next year hung in a state of suspended animation today as the special joint tax commission quit work until the legislature returns from its recess Tuesday.

The commission chairman, Sen. Paul P. Yoder, said "there is no program" but outlined six measures which will be presented to the joint taxation committee of the legislature Tuesday.

That group will consider whether the measures should be recommended to the legislature and the house and senate taxation committees will then take a fling at the lineup.

A three per cent sales tax which would yield $52,000,000; an average increase in utility taxes of one per cent except on railroads, to produce $3,000,000; and a combination net and earned income tax, ranging from one per cent to five per cent on $2,000 brackets, with federal exemption bases up to $3,000, to yield $17,500,000 were the backbone of the agenda.

Supplementary measures including the Gunsett bill to set up a $23,000,000 state school fund; corrective refunding legislation to skirt hints of constitutionality.

Repeal of nuisance taxes on cosmetics, toilet products, and soft drinks, and possibly of taxes on cigarettes were considered.

Son of Hoover To Be a Dirt Farmer

(By Associated Press)

FRESNO, Calif., March 1.—Leaving a "white collar" job, Allan Hoover, second son of former President Herbert Hoover, turned today to the business of "dirt" farming.

For several months young Hoover has been working on farms in the San Joaquin valley, toiling with the laborers, pruning vines and trees, helping irrigate the vineyards and wielding a hoe and a shovel.

He had a position as a field man in the land department of a bank. But he sought practical experience as a dirt farmer, to learn the business from the ground up.

He and his associates recently purchased a 500-acre farm which Hoover will manage. He declined to say what the future of farming held for him, remarking it is a hard job being the son of a former president.

"Allan will have no trouble in working out his own destiny," said E. F. Loesch, manager of the real estate and farm department of The Security-First National bank of Los Angeles.

Young Hoover will supervise the 2,500 acre Greenfield ranch in addition to the 500 acre farm.

London Court Is Thrilled Over Rasputin Death Tale

Witness In Film Suit Tells How He Was Invited To Help Murder Mysterious Monk

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, March 2.—Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson testified before an excited London court that he "was actually invited by Vladimir M. Purishkevitch—one of those who helped kill the monk—to murder Rasputin."

His sensational testimony came as one of the most startling developments in the $2,000,000 libel suit of Princess Irene Youssouffoff against producers of the film, "Rasputin and the Empress."

The courtroom was crowded with spectators.

Prince Felix Youssouffoff told yesterday how he was hypnotized by the "mad monk" and how he poisoned, shot and beat the mysterious character to death.

Commander Lampson, however, supplied the greatest sensation, giving intimate details of the gruesome murder which took place in the cellar of St. Petersburg palace.

GIRL WAS DEAD, SAYS DR. ALICE ON STAND TODAY

EMOTION CHOKES WOMAN PHYSICIAN

Asserts Rheta Wynkoop
Was Lifeless When She Found Her

(By Associated Press)

CRIMINAL COURTS BUILDING, CHICAGO, March 2.—Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynkoop took the witness stand today in her own defense a her second trial for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, reached its climax.

The defendant was carried to the stand in the absence of the jury.

Dr. Catherine, daughter of the defendant sat in the front row. Not far from her was Miss Enid Ennessey, the school teacher boarder in Dr. Wynkoop's home.

Court Room Filled
Every seat in the courtroom was taken and the aisles were packed. Outside in the halls long lines waited hopefully.

As the questioning was begun, Dr. Wynkoop answered calmly, but in low tones. Later her voice became more distinct.

Under the guidance of W. W. Smith, her attorney, Dr. Wynkoop told of her marriage to Dr. Frank Wynkoop, of the building of her home in 1924, of the birth of her four children, the oldest of whom, Frank Vincent, is dead.

As she reached the stage in her story of the operating table murder mystery where she was to tell how she found her daughter-in-law, Rheta, dead, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynkoop choked with emotion, her voice failed her, and she was unable momentarily to continue.

"You saw her face, Doctor, and what did you see?" asked Defense Attorney W. W. Smith in a tense dramatic voice.

The courtroom fans, the jury, the judge, leaned forward.

"I noted a peculiar color," Dr. Wynkoop said. "And what did that color indicate to you?"

Court Room Hushed
The hush in the courtroom was that of a tomb.

Dr. Wynkoop, she who had seemed so stoic, struggled to answer. The muscles on her thin neck played.

Her thin, colored lips were tightly closed as though they refused to obey her will to speak.

With a gasp she tossed back her head, her eyes quivering with tears. "Death," she whispered hoarsely. And not a person stirred.

Three-County CWA Clerks Plan Party

LISBON, March 2.—Arrangements are being perfected for a social meeting of all CWA clerical workers, March 9, including forces from Columbiana, Jefferson and Carroll counties.

Guests will include the CWA directors, E. M. Lowry, representing Columbiana county; Miss Kathryn Westfall, Carroll county and Charles W. Bolen, Jefferson county, and the tri-county disbursing agent, J. H. H. Sinclair.

It had been planned to have the meeting here, but it was later determined that Carrollton would be a more central point. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p. m. in the rooms of the Civic club, Carrollton. About 80 are expected to attend. The meeting is the first of the type that has been arranged since the CWA forces organized.

Depositors Won't Come to Get Money

CHICAGO, March 2.—There is plenty of money in the Edgewater Trust and Savings bank, about $100,000 in fact—but the depositors can't seem willing to come and get it, although they have been invited to do so.

The bank wishes to go out of business because of lack of profits.

Will Call CCC Men

LISBON, March 2.—County CWA director E. M. Lowry has been informed by Major E. O. Broughton, Columbus, that a call for recruits for Civilian Conservation Camps would be made in this county during either April or May.

Lowry has not been informed of the quota for this county, or to what camp the recruits will be assigned. The prevailing wage of $30 monthly will prevail for the next call.

Law Firm Splits

LISBON, March 2.—Announcement was made here today that the law firm of Cochran & Crawford, established at East Liverpool, Feb. 13, 1921, has dissolved.

Samuel W. Crawford, former probate judge and junior member of the firm, has located new offices in the Potters Savings & Loan Co. building, East Liverpool, with Mr. Cochran retaining the present offices at Fifth and Market sts.

MRS. PETTIT, 77, SUCCUMBS HERE

J. E. Pettit's Widow Dies
At Home of Daughter,
Mrs. H. E. Stiver

Mrs. Lydia S. Pettit, 77, widow of Joseph E. Pettit, died at 11 a. m. today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Stiver, 1553 Cleveland st. She had been in failing health for some time.

A daughter of Robert and Sarah Stanley, Mrs. Pettit was born near Mt. Gleason. In her early life the family moved to Damascus and she had spent most of her life in that village and vicinity. At one time she lived in Salem.

She received her education at the Damascus academy and Earlham college, Richmond, Ind. She was a life member of the Friends church.

For many years she was chairman of the Missionary board of Ohio Yearly meeting of Gurney Friends and always was active in church work.

On Nov. 1, 1877, she was married to Joseph E. Pettit, who died in 1922.

Surviving are three children, Mrs. L. W. Atkinson and Mrs. Stiver, Salem, and Clyde Pettit, Beloit, five grandchildren, one great grandchild; two sisters, Mrs. Etta White and Sibyl Stanley, Straughan, Ind. Mrs. White was with her sister at the Stiver home, when the end came.

The funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Damascus Friends church in charge of the pastor, Rev. Walter Williams. Interment will be at the Damascus cemetery.

Friends may call Saturday afternoon and evening at the Stiver home.

Elbows Scanned

EAST LIVERPOOL, March 2.—Somebody saw a man use his elbow to smash the plate glass window of the Maurice Fredland jewelry store here, then reach in and take a gold watch.

After looking over a great many elbows in the city, police arrested a pottery worker and held him as a suspect. The workers' elbow was cut.

Get Employment, Off Idle List Now

LISBON, March 2.—More than 260 men registered at the office of the National Employment Service here have been taken from the list because they have obtained employment in industrial plants or elsewhere, it was announced today by F. E. Kinsey, office manager.

Many plumbers and electricians who registered have taken personal contracts, and in turn have hired assistants, who also have been registered. The pottery trade has absorbed others as have other industrial plants.

Valuation Is Cut
COLUMBUS, March 2.—The state tax commission today reduced the valuation of accounts receivable of the W. S. George Pottery Co., of East Palestine, by $15,000. The reduction is for the taxable valuation in 1933.

At the same time the commission rejected an appeal of the company from the valuation of its furniture and fixtures.

ROOSEVELT ASKING WIDE TARIFF POWER IN TRADE DEALINGS

Message to Congress Today Asks Authority
To Modify Rates In Negotiations
With Other Nations

SAYS WORLD TRADE HAS DECLINED

U. S. Must Be In Position To Bargain If Agriculture and Industry Are To Benefit, He Asserts

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 2.—President Roosevelt today asked congress for authority to modify tariff rates in negotiating commercial agreements with other nations.

"I am requesting the congress to authorize the executive," said the President, "to enter into executive commercial agreements with foreign nations; and in pursuance thereof within carefully guarded limits to modify existing duties and import restrictions in such a way as will benefit American agriculture and industry."

The President discussed at length the reasons for asking such power.

First, he said, world trade has declined approximately 70 per cent from its 1929 volume. Second, other governments to an increasing extent are "winning their share of international trade by negotiating reciprocal trade agreements."

"If American agricultural and industrial interests are to retain their deserved place in this trade," he asserted, "the American government must be in a position to bargain for that place with other governments by rapid and decisive negotiation based upon a carefully considered program and to grant with discrimination corresponding opportunities in the American market for foreign products supplementary to our own."

The tariff-bargaining experiment was proposed to congress with assurance from the Democratic leadership of support but with a bitter partisan debate in prospect on the ancient political issue.

President's Tariff Request Is Facing "Bitter End" Fight

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A fight to the "bitter end" confronted President Roosevelt's tariff proposal today. Embattled Republicans apparently were ready to carry the issue into the fall campaigns.

The plan would give the President wide powers to raise or lower tariffs in negotiating reciprocal treaties with foreign nations.

Under the proposal, Mr. Roosevelt for three years could negotiate trade treaties with any country, without senate confirmation, raising or lowering tariffs 50 per cent without recourse to the tariff commission.

"It would be the greatest political weapon ever held by one man," said Snell. "It would give him the power, if he wanted to wipe out any manufacturing company now receiving protection."

The tariff question, it appears, will be "test number three" of the Roosevelt sway over congress.

Texas Appointed O.S.U. Grid Coach

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Francis Schmidt today was appointed head football coach at Ohio State university, succeeding Sam Willaman, resigned.

The Texas will be offered a three-year contract, the board of athletic control announced. His services will begin June 1, when Willaman's present contract expires. Schmidt, however, will return to Columbus late this month to conduct spring football practice.

Schmidt has been here for two days discussing the Ohio State position with the board.

Kidnap Fright Put Down as "Flirting"

MILWAUKEE, March 2.—Two men accused of kidnaping a nursemaid for the socially prominent Layton Busby family, as she took the two Busby children, Carol one, and Dorothy, two, on an airing. Fearing an attempted kidnaping, the Busbys called police.

After a 24-hour investigation the officers decided the two men were flirting with the pretty maid.

A YEAR OF NEW DEALING

The end of President Roosevelt's first year provides no opportunity for an accounting. One needs only to read of what is going on in Washington to realize that the new deal is barely begun. Its benefits are still in the future, for the most part. They are anticipated, not realized.

The country is familiar with the history of the Roosevelt administration's first year—probably more familiar than it has been with any period of history since the beginning of the United States. Yet, there has not yet elapsed sufficient time to give perspective on what has happened.

Broadly interpreted, there seems to have been in the United States during the first year of the new deal an approximate repetition of a movement that has been common all over the world. It may be described as a consolidation of force to meet extraordinary situations. Its manifestations range all the way from frank dictatorship to coalition rule.

Its nominated beneficiary in every case has been the common man. In the United States there has been frank acknowledgment of government's intention to level peaks of wealth into valleys of poverty, to the end that the common standard of living may be raised.

But even in the United States, which has attempted to accomplish what amounts to a revolution by peaceful and legitimate methods, there has risen a question common under European dictatorship. Will the masses be benefited in the final analysis by the close regimentation that is the recourse of paternalistic governments?

A year of new dealing offers no answer. The Roosevelt administration still has the mandate of an overwhelming popular vote for its policies, many of them still vague. It has three years yet in which to operate before it must ask for renewal of its mandate. The most practiced observers can see only dimly into those years.

The country is more hopeful of the future this March than it was a year ago. There has been improvement, but how much of it is due to the new deal and how much is due to natural recovery after the crisis a year ago cannot be determined. It is vitally important, however, that desperation has vanished. The prospect for calmer thinking and more deliberate acting is good.

One result of this has been a more general disposition to balance good and evil than was possible during the frantic period when every action was deemed good merely because it was action. For one thing, the country is beginning to comprehend the costliness of what has been done. It has not lost courage, but it is gaining caution.

What has been done—both good and bad—cannot be undone. Those who continue to think of the new deal as a temporary phase which will disappear without trace are living in dreams. Similarly, those who imagine that the United States has been thrown open to unlimited experimentation are guilty of illusion.

The new deal has left its impress and indicated its future direction in its first year of application. There has been a fair measure of recovery but, as yet, only a minimum of reform. In another year, perhaps, it will be possible to judge conclusively the true proportions of the political upheaval which started a year ago.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

There has been no doubt for some time that the federal government was going to have another pensioner applying for relief. Remarks like those made in the convention of school superintendents at Cleveland show plainly the direction the wind is blowing. Public education's needs have exceeded the states' ability to satisfy them.

No exaggeration is required to make the school situation look desperate. Finances are in a deplorable state. Teachers are working for starvation pay in many districts, and some are working for promises of doubtful value. The breakdown of taxation systems and specifically declining revenues from general property taxation have threatened the life of public education.

There is an ironic thrust in the significance of the phrase, public education, under such threatening circumstances. The fact is—and professional educators are facing it bravely—that the public seems less concerned over an imminent breakdown than educators are. The latter, pleading for broad measures of relief, are placed in the position of defending the public school system against destruction by the people it serves.

Obviously, the ability of educators to avert a serious setback to public education in the United States is determined by the public's response to the alarm they express. If there truly is a disposition to let schools systems undergo deflation—and lack of response to appeals for help indicates that such is the case—the public will have to take responsibility for the consequences. Educators have done everything they can to give warning.

Federal aid is far from an uncontroversial expedient. Some states whose school systems are not in immediate danger will oppose it on the ground that it would penalize them for the sake of improvident states. There will be great difficulty encountered in setting aside the conception of public education as a state duty. In the continued absence of any general demand from the public for a federal remedy, however, it may have to be assumed that education's beneficiaries are less disturbed over what may happen than its professional dependents. The latter cannot provide what is needed to save education; they only can advise.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

I thought tremulous Helen Morgan was the only public performer whose graceful hands fluttered like aspen leaves before the audience. But it seems such nervousness affects some old-timers. George M. Cohan, for instance. In holding a song he sang over the air recently, a close-up revealed his hands pitching in wild tremor.

Even the thriller type of magazines have thumbs-downed on gangster fiction. With the movies and radio banning the idea, too, the channel of glorification now narrows to tabloids. The gangster, from Gyp the Blood to Legs Diamond has proved a miserable sort of rat, who uses a machine gun at the expense of innocent children and whose courage is solely from liquor and drugs.

I have picked up a morning bowing acquaintance with a group of shills—two women and three men—in a jewelry auction room in West 42nd street. They arrive about 11 o'clock to group about the auctioneer and look like customers. After frequently passing the place at that time of day, looking in, I finally began to bow and they to return it. There is a comic sheepishness about them, the guilty flush of "After all, we must make a living." And, too, they get to meet all kinds of people.

So many delightful vistas greet the eye of the New York saunterer, I think especially of those bonfires of red at the foot of every cross street at sundown. To the sentimental, all the city's faulty helter-skelter becomes suddenly precious. Sunsets will always to the impressionable give a new clutch to the unknowable. They are beacons of something far beyond, a heavenly testament of affection that somewhere all is well. I know many sunset lovers—George Gershwin, Charles M. Schwab, Doris Kenyon, Tom Mix and others whose names at the moment are fugitive.

One unforgettable sunset, a long swing back in time, was from a Santa Fe observation platform crossing Arizona's desert. The occupant of the only other chair was a fat, roughish fellow I did not then know personally but the world knew as Fatty Arbuckle. Under the prismatic spell of the dying splendor he sat rigid until the landscape was eclipsed by dusk. The train lights came on. He was wiping away a tear hurriedly, clumsily. And through all the vicissitudes he later passed I could never somehow believe he was bad as painted. He loved the sunset.

Major Edward Bowes is supremely militaristic. He thinks in the precise formations of squads and platoons and his vast affairs are meticulously orderly. His friends say jokingly when he was elevated to high rank his pajamas were epauleted and he went to sleep with his sword. Anyway when his lovely wife, the former Margaret Illington, thanked friends for a profusion of flowers after a surgical operation her cards read: "Mrs. Major Operation Bowes thanks you very much!"

THIRTY YEARS AGO.
(Issue of March 2, 1904.)

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bradway and two daughters, Lizzie and Anna, Winona, left this morning for Tunesassa, N. Y., where they will locate. Mr. and Mrs. Bradway will be superintendent and matron, respectively, of the Friends school for Indians.

Anthony M. Fisher has been advised that his brother, William Fisher, is critically ill at his home in Olin, Ia.

Prof. Park R. Kolbe, of the High school faculty, is ill of grip. Supt. Johnson is assisting with his work. James Irey, who has been patrol officer here for the last four years, has resigned his position effective April 1.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.
(Issue of March 2, 1914.)

From 49 degrees above zero on Feb. 3 to 21 degrees below on Feb. 25, is the temperature range for that month, according to the report of Weather Observer J. E. Bentley.

City officials say that they cannot account for the remarkable dearth of arrests. For a period of two months Mayor Johnson has heard only 26 city cases and three state cases.

Plans have been completed by the churches for a religious survey of Salem. Rev. M. J. Grable is chairman of the executive committee.

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, March 3

The astrological forecast for this day is quite an auspicious one, presaging important events in the way of promotion as well as stabilizing the fortunes, increasing real possessions and enhancing the personal popularity, prestige and solid recognition of those in places of power and authority.

This the result of industry, fidelity and substantial qualities and attainments. The social, domestic and romantic affiliations are also well aspected.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are under excellent promise for the year, with assurances of solid success, increased possessions, as well as the enhanced prestige born of the support and friendly interest of those in power. The purely private associations and activities also will be gratifying.

A child born on this day should be studious, industrious, responsible and successful, winning also by its personal popularity and graces.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Foster Good Habits

RECENTLY I WROTE about failure of elimination in adults. It was pointed out that this chronic disability is usually the result of neglect in early life. I want to tell you how to correct this fault when it appears in childhood.

Every child should have a free movement once or twice a day. When two years of age he should be able to wait on himself. Unfortunately, many children neglect this habit and fail to ask for the necessary attention. The mother should instruct the child in his duties.

This is best accomplished by observing what time of day the urge appears and adopt this hour as the regular program. Do not keep the child in the bathroom longer than ten minutes. If there is no response after several efforts, it is permissible to use a glycerin suppository. This will stimulate the movement and perhaps mark the beginning of regular action.

Of course, suppositories should not be used continuously. When the suppository is used make sure it is fully inserted and entirely dissolved. After its insertion, the buttocks should be pressed together for two or three minutes.

Regular Meal Hours
I am frequently asked at what time the child's movement is best adjusted to his welfare. It usually occurs in children, as well as in adults, shortly after breakfast. For this reason this is the best time of the day to choose for the function. The second visit to the bathroom may occur at any time of the day, but is most likely to be after the evening meal. The child should be given attention immediately after supper, or just before going to bed.

Encourage the child to drink three to four glasses of water a day. Meals should be served at regular hours and the diet should contain a liberal amount of laxative foods. Give raw fruits at least once a day and include among the cooked fruits such articles as prunes, apricots and rhubarb.

Never give a child castor oil or other positive cathartic unless advised to do so by the doctor. If the child has had no action for two days a small enema may be given. Persistent constipation requires medical attention, because it may be the result of some intestinal disturbance.

Bear in mind that early attention to the habit formation will prevent constipation and other associated disorders. I cannot overemphasize the importance of establishing this important function at an early age. Do not consider it a trivial matter and trust entirely to nature. Attention of the proper sort will remedy this disorder.

Answers to Health Queries
A Reader, Q.—What should a girl of 13.5 feet 7 inches tall weigh?
A.—She should weigh about 134 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

A Reader, Q.—Is it possible to cure cancer without the knife?
A.—The X-ray and radium are used in some instances, depending upon the location of the trouble. Carbon monoxide is a poisonous gas found in automobile exhausts and in the leakage from gas tubing.

E. V. W. Q.—What do you advise for liver spots?
A.—Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN

Twelve Years With Fine Results
Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market.

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN.

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person, University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A Review of the Day's News

—By Arthur Brisbane—

GEORGE H. MAINES announced: "Senator Huey Long and Norman Thomas debate at Saeco in New York city; subject: Capitalism Is Doomed and Cannot Now Be Saved by a Redistribution of Wealth. Thomas taking affirmative; Long negative, defending capitalism."

Norman Thomas may convince an audience, but history will take Senator Long's side. Military feudalism, having ruled Europe for many centuries, gave way to what is called "industrial and capitalist capitalism." Such systems of government do not rise and fall quickly.

Long after today's little NRA, CWA, RFC and other alphabetized complications and temptations are forgotten, governments of the world by modern capitalism of capitalist and industrial intelligence will continue this century will not see the end of it.

THE WORLD is always ruled by intelligence and power. Rulership resided once in the heavy club of the strongest, most intelligent savage, and then passed to organized government by kings and armies.

Just now, power is in accumulated dollars and in industrial science and organization. It may pass eventually to what is vaguely called the general intelligence and the rights of man. But that is a long way off.

IN ILLINOIS Roger Touhy, called "Terrible Touhy," ruler of the underworld, expert kidnaper, goes to jail under a 99-year sentence, with 15 automobile loads of policemen accompanying him to the prison gates.

The super-gangster, head bowed, shoulders sagging, tears in his eyes, sob in his throat, says:

"This is terrible."

It is terrible, of course. Ninety-nine years in jail, even though you may come out, as Touhy may at the end of some 30 years, is a long time.

BUT kidnapping, fastening men's eyes and mouth with adhesive tape, tying their wrists and ankles with wire, torturing their relatives with anxiety, is also "terrible." It would hardly do to have all the "terribleness" on one side of the fence.

In California the people got tired of kidnapping, and, especially of torture, so two men that kidnapped and used burning paper to extort money will be hanged by the neck until they are dead. They, doubtless, think it is terrible, and it is.

Relics of Belgian King's Tragic Death

"Fashions of 1934", Elaborate and Unusual Film, Now Playing at State

BRIGHT smart, gay comedy, delightfully inconsequential but alive with fun, pretty girls, striking effects and gorgeous costumes—such adjectives may be applied to "Fashions of 1934" at the State today and Saturday.

Dealing with the piracy of Parisian fashions by American crooks and showing a multitude of striking designs by way of illustration, the picture is a natural for women. But there is a diverting story, brilliant dialogue and a fine collection of comedy performances.

Cast Very Good

William Powell is a super racketeer who steals French creations and sells them to lesser trade through an elaborate system of bribery and photographic copying.

William Powell

Bette Davis

Herbert, the plume rancher, clean up by forcing Miss Teasdale's duped husband, Reginald Owen, a French couturier, to buy out his competing house. Four cornered jealousy by Bette Davis and the "Duchess" and Powell and Phillip Reed, keeps the suspense alive.

William Dietrich's direction is first rate with the fantastic quality of the tale always interesting. For pictorial beauty the film presents a striking creation in Bobby Berkley's blond viking girls rowing in a silken sea.

As for the comedy, Herbert and McHugh take care of it in grand style.

Police Described As Suspicious Men

SEATTLE, March 2.—An excited voice came over telephone to police. "This is a watchman out on Sixth ave. There are two suspicious men in a car at a gas station here."

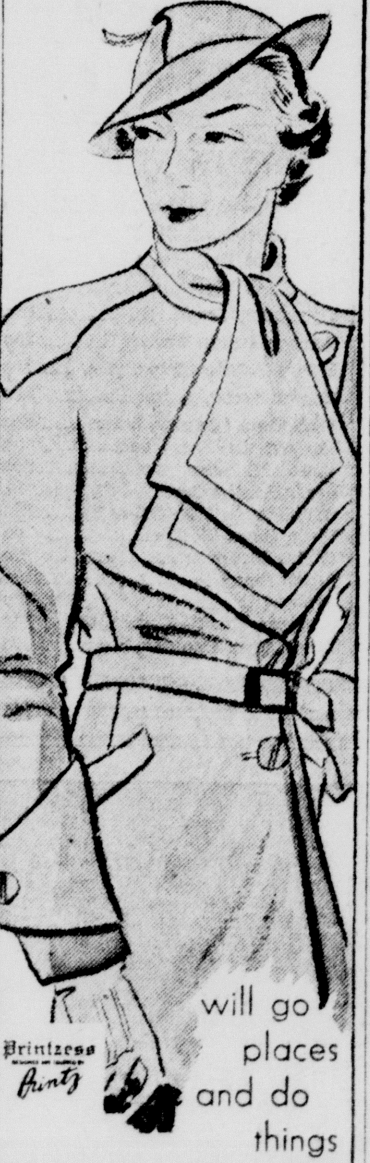

The report was short-lived out to patrol car No. 2, which was in that vicinity. Shortly the following report came back by phone:

"Never mind about that call. We were the fellows in that car."

Lauds Scout Life, Movement's Growth

"The Boy Scouts are representative of the American idea of America," declared C. E. Felton, Lisbon, county scout executive, today as he pointed to the remarkable strides the organization has taken in past years and outlined contemplated plans for increasing the scope of the movement.

"The Scouts could give a good answer if any were needed," he said, to the "debunkers" of our early history, who, rightly or wrongly, are accused of denying patriotism.

"The training of the Boy Scout on his marches and in his camp, in many ways, like that of the soldier. The same training also resembles that of the engineer and the geodetic surveyor — than which nothing in human life is more romantic or more manfully practical."

If Jules Verne were writing his romances of earth and sea and mean today he would surely find good material for heroes to his liking in this organization.

Boy Scout life would be worthy while if for no other reason than that it helps to counteract the increasing tendency of city life to shut people away, body and mind, from country sights, sounds and influences.

Pierpont Seeking Help of Dillinger

(By Associated Press)

LIMA, O., March 2.—A deposition from John Dillinger, the gang leader whose liberation from the Allen county jail last Oct. 12, resulted in the death of Sheriff Jess Barber, is being sought by attorneys for Fred Pierpont, a Dillinger gangster.

Pierpont is to go on trial next Tuesday, charged with first degree murder in the slaying of Barber. The state accuses him of being the trigger man in the jail delivery and the fatal shooting of the sheriff.

CLASS GIVES BENEFIT

The Harris class of the Christian church gave a charmingly appointed benefit party Thursday evening in the Sunday school room of the church.

Green and white decorations were significant of St. Patrick's day. Green balloons were used around the lights.

Approximately 160 persons participated in the event. The guests were seated at small tables centered with green and white flowers. William Maple, Kensington, "singing undertaker", entertained with groups of songs.

Members of the Community Club Players, under the direction of Mrs. L. W. Matthews, presented a play, "The Tangled Web". In the cast were Charles Stewart, Mrs. Betty Kennedy, Miss Helen Shelton and Victor Orahman.

Other numbers were: Readings, Mrs. Carl Stratton; saxophone solos, Betty Jane Gibbons, with her mother, Mrs. L. O. Gibbons, as accompanist; talk, W. H. Boone, teacher of the class; piano trio, Misses Ruth Moff, Margaret M. Kirkbride and Evelyn Cherry. Lunch was served.

METHODIST SOCIETY

Miss Laura Schilling was in charge of the devotional period at a meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday afternoon at the church. Two groups in the society gave Bible verses.

Mrs. S. A. Mayers group was in charge of the meeting. The members decided to send a magazine to Elizabeth Ritchey, a foreign missionary.

Plans were made to observe Founders day on Wednesday evening, March 7, in connection with the church fellow ship supper.

Select readings were given by Mrs. Mayer, Mrs. A. H. Stratton, Mrs. Mary Pine, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Phil Chancellor and Mrs. A. B. Hobson. Refreshments were served.

DINNER FOR CLUB

Mrs. D. S. Montgomery, Franklin st., delightfully entertained club associates Thursday evening.

After a dinner served by Mrs. John Stratton at her home, Washington ave., the members went to Mrs. Montgomery's home and played bridge.

Prizes in the games were won by Mrs. Vincent Judge and Mrs. Glenn Switzer. Mrs. G. W. Harris was presented the guest prize.

Mrs. Judge, North Ellsworth ave., has invited the members to meet with her in two weeks.

HOSSTESS TO CLUB

Pink sweetpeas were used in the table decorations when Mrs. Albert Kingsley entertained club associates at a luncheon-bridge Thursday at her home on East Sixth st.

Mrs. Lester Koenreich was presented the prize for high score honors in the bridge games.

The next meeting will be in two weeks.

JENNINGS AVENUE CLUB

Associates of the Jennings Avenue club composed the guest list at a 1 o'clock luncheon given Thursday by Mrs. H. P. Maeder at her home, Cleveland st.

During the afternoon the women were interested in visiting and needlework.

On April 5 the members will meet again.

AT STAMP HOME

Club associates of Misses Zillian and Ella Stamp gathered Thursday evening at their home, West Tenth st., and enjoyed the hours playing bridge. Refreshments were served after the games.

Meeting in two weeks the women will be guests of Miss Leeta Gibson, Jennings ave.

SOUTH SIDE CLUB

Visiting occupied the hours with needlework a diversion at a gathering of South Side club members Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. David Astry, Lisbon rd.

Lunch was served. In two weeks the members will meet again.

DAVID BEVAN CLASS

Fred Limestone was host to members of the David Bevan class of the Baptist church Thursday evening at his home on Woodland ave.

Games furnished entertainment. Refreshments were served.

A. T. Hutson is teacher of this class.

F. J. Emeny and F. R. Pow of Salem left Thursday night for New York City, where they will join Mrs. Emeny, who has been visiting there.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Emeny and Pow will leave on a trip to the West Indies. They expect to be gone about three weeks.

Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, secretary of the Salem Business bureau, who is ill at her home, Washington ave., was reported today to be improved.

PLAN CELEBRATION

Preliminary plans for the celebration of the 36th anniversary of the unit were made by members of the Women's Benefit association at a meeting Thursday evening at the hall, North Broadway.

The celebration will be on March 29 and will begin with a covered-dish supper. Mrs. John Sweeney was named chairman of the social committee appointed to arrange the event.

Two applications for membership were accepted.

A public card party was held after the meeting. Fifteen tables were engaged at cards. Five hundred prizes were claimed by Mrs. Zella McGaffie and Mr. Weigand, while bridge prizes were claimed by Mrs. C. P. Hepler and Mr. Callahan. Lunch was served.

The members will meet with Mrs. Anna Marcus and Mrs. Lydia Powers, who live on West State st., in two weeks.

FRIENDS CLASS

The boys of Herman Stratton's class of the First Friends church will hold a social meeting tonight at 7:30 at the home of their teacher on North Ellsworth ave.

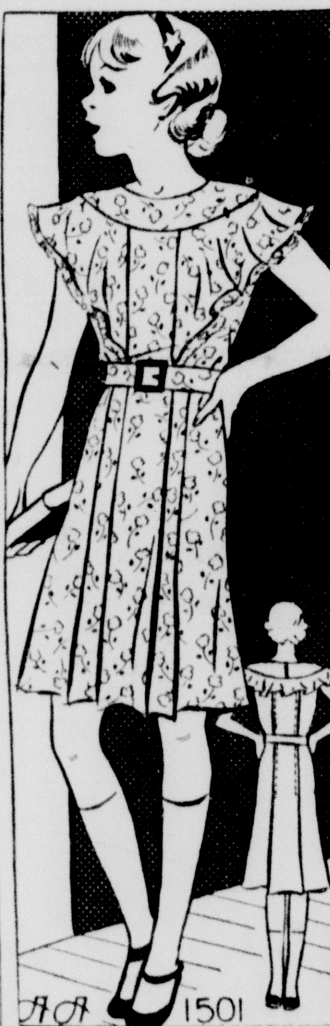

LEAP YEAR CLUB

The Leap Year club will hold a meeting next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Green, 615 Euclid st.

MANCHESTER, O.—Davis Collings, 77, related to both a presidential and a vice presidential nominee, died recently. Collings was a cousin of John W. Today's Pattern

DESIGNED TO PLEASE
A LITTLE GIRL.
PATTERN 1501

Every little girl will adore this frock. It has so much young charm. And it has style, too, just as much as a grown person's dress. For a little party frock it is most attractive made of swiss, dimity, voile or batiste and trimmed around the flatterly ruffle edge with lace. The same pattern can be used to make a gingham dress or one of a cotton print suitable for play and school. But then you should have the lace off and edge it with self material, either in a ruffle, a facing or a binding. The skirt pleats end in delightful animation and give ample room for strenuous play.

Pattern 1501 is available in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8 takes 2 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric and 3 1/2 yards edging. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

The new spring 1934 edition of the Anne Adams pattern book features all the best spring styles for adults and children. Send for your copy of this interesting, helpful book and be chic this spring.

Winks Blinks Now

The new White House setter, Winks, is in a bad spot. Other dogs at the executive mansion have been excited because they enjoyed nipping strangers. But Winks doesn't waste nips. He polished off a dozen break fasts in the servants' quarters when no one was looking and blithely faced the camera afterwards.

ONION SOUP BECOMING A FAVORITE DISH HERE

ONION SOUP is gradually making a conquest of America. This succulent soup, so beloved by the French people, is constantly appearing on private tables, and in restaurants and tea rooms. And when it appears on the menu, customers invariably come back for more. To be properly French, the soup should be served in "petites Marmites" those charming little earthenware bowls with covers. But, of course, these aren't absolutely necessary. The main thing is that the onion soup should be tasty and good. And so we offer you our onion soup in the hope that you will soon serve it. How to Make It

Thinly slice four large onions and lightly brown the slices in two tablespoons of butter over a low fire. When brown stir in six cups of chicken broth or four bouillon cubes dissolved in six cups of boiling water. Add a few grains of powdered cloves and salt to taste. Simmer until the onions are tender. Sprinkle a holland rusk with butter and sprinkle with cheese. Just before serving, put soup into individual oven-proof bowls, place a prepared rusk on each serving and set in very hot oven until cheese melts and browns.

Here's another grand vegetable dish that owes much to cheese for its piquant flavor. A new way to bake carrots calls for three cups of cut, uncooked carrots. Boil in salted water until tender. Drain, pour in two-thirds of a cup of liquor and mash well. Stir in 12 crumbled soda crackers, two teaspoons melted butter and quarter teaspoon pepper. Put in greased baking dish, pour liquor over and cover with four tablespoons grated cheese. Bake in hot oven for 25 minutes. Serve six portions.

A Vegetable Dish
Another nice vegetable dish has canned lima beans for its base. To make deviled lima beans, heat two tablespoons butter in a saucepan. Add mixed onion (tablespoon salt, same amount prepared mustard, a dash of paprika, seven lunch crackers rolled fine and one and a half cups of milk. Cook gently for three minutes. Add one beaten egg, two teaspoons Worcestershire sauce and one cup of canned lima beans. Continue cooking for three minutes. Makes six portions.

DEER LODGE, Mont. — Peter Hackenack set out to catch a mess of trout through the ice and came back with an aquarium. As fast as he caught them he tossed them onto the ice and they were quickly frozen. He testifies, with witnesses to back him up, that he took the fish home put them into a tub of water while he had dinner, and an hour later found every trout alive and swimming in the tub.

All Dated Up—For Dunking

CHICAGO GRAIN

Pronounced strength and activity developed in grain futures trading today, with sharp advances in price shown, especially in the late dealings.

A maximum rise of about 2 cents a bushel for wheat took place. Inflation talk suggested by Washington messages was a bullish factor, and so too was announcement from Buenos Aires that the Argentine government would hoist the minimum wheat price paid to farmers commencing Monday next.

DEATHS

CORA MAY ANDERSON

LISBON, March 2.—Cora May Anderson, 59, of Ferry Glen rd., East Steubenville, W. Va., died at 11:30 p. m. Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Burrell, Lisbon.

Mrs. Anderson came to visit with her daughter 17 days ago. She was born March 1, 1875, at West Middletown, Pa.

Surviving are her husband, John Anderson, and one daughter, Mrs. Burrell.

The body will be taken to East Steubenville this evening. Funeral service will be held Sunday at Wellsburg, W. Va.

JOHN T. McGAFFIC

LISBON, March 2.—Funeral service for John T. McGaffic who died Thursday morning at his home, R. F. D. 5, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Christian church in charge of Rev. F. C. Lake. Interment will be in the Lisbon cemetery.

The body is now at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elsie Corbett, Canton rd. west of Lisbon.

JOSEPH VUCINOVIC

Funeral service for Joseph Vucinovic, who died Wednesday morning will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday at St. Paul's Catholic church in charge of Rev. Fr. Vincent Jones.

Interment will be in Grandview cemetery.

Air Pool Signed By France, Germany

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, March 2.—A Franco-German air pool for a five-day South American mail service was signed today by Air France and Lufthansa, subject to approval by the two governments.

An accord between the two international flying services was reached concerning the air pool on Feb. 12, it was disclosed in the announcement today.

The French air ministry and parliamentary committees, although somewhat reluctant to approve the agreement, are expected to accept it in view of the menace in German competition for the rich trans-oceanic traffic.

71, Has New Teeth

MANITOWOC, Wis., March 2.—At the age of 71 Mrs. Margaret Kurzweska, inmate of St. Mary's Home for the Aged, is cutting her third set of teeth. She accepts the painful experience philosophically, declaring "the Lord wants me to have them so I suppose I'll have to suffer for them."

French Balking On Hitler's Arms Plea

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, March 2.—The French cabinet decided today that Chancellor Hitler's request for rearmament of Germany could not be accepted unless adequate assurances were given that new armament limits shall be observed.

Great Britain will be asked to come to the defense of France, if Germany should break such an agreement.

High army, navy and air chiefs, forming the national defense council responsible for France's armed strength, are to submit their opinion to the cabinet.

'Lawd' Loses Cane

DAYTON, O., March 2.—"De Lawd" today was seeking a cane which he had used in 1461 performances of "The Green Pastures." The walking stick of Richard B. Harrison, veteran actor, was of Irish thorn with 115 prongs. It disappeared Wednesday.

A souvenir hunter is believed to have taken it.

Doctor Arrives

SANDUSKY, O., March 2.—Fears of the residents of Kelley's Island that a stork would arrive within the few days without a physician to greet him were allayed last night.

Dr. H. A. Crossett of Toledo rode a sled to the island over frozen Lake Erie, to replace the community's physician, Dr. John Haas, who died a few days ago.

IT'S HERE— Remarkable, Modern, New “FLO- TIGHT” LAMP

Every ray of light is utilized in the NEW, Scientific, 3 candle Reflector Lamp. Direct and indirect lighting, of course . . . but something else, too! A sliding metal adjustment at the base of the funnel which regulates the light. This permits the central bulb to light the entire shade without the additional expense of turning on the three candles when indirect lighting is desired. The result is larger and better reading area. Beautifully designed to meet the requirements of our lighting engineers.

The shade is made of Crinkle Parchment of Colonial design to match; in brown antique finish . . . See it today . . . Ask about our club plan.

Meeting Is Held By Beloit Class; Program Is Given

BELOIT, March 2.—The Plus class met at the home of Mrs. Nellie Brister, last Friday evening. The meeting was opened by a reading by Mrs. Dell Hicks and offered prayer. The class sang some songs: "If Your Heart Keeps Aching," "In The Garden," and "Safe In The Arms of Jesus." Members of the class were appointed to write to missionaries in China. Letters from Ethel Naylor and Freda Grahame of Ohio, China, were read by Mrs. Elsie Pettit and letter from Mrs. Verda Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Devel also of China, were read by Mrs. Fern Sams. A self-denial fund was set up in this meeting. The social part was in charge of Mrs. Loreta and Mrs. Fern Sams. Refreshments were served by the class assisted by Mrs. Blanche and Della Israel.

To Seek Gold in Lion Country

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL

Taking time out from his never-ending quest for new automobile speed records, Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speed king, turns to a hunt for gold. With Sir Alan Cobham, aviator pioneer, he plans to fly from London to Bechuanaland, Africa, where, in the lion-infested Kalahari Desert, they hope to find new deposits of the precious metal. However, the explorers have two other strings to their bow. Sir Alan will conduct an aerial survey with the object of charting new air routes across the forbidding land, and Campbell will seek a tract of flat land, suitable for auto speed tests. Sir Malcolm did better than 270 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., but he thinks he can do much better than that.

"BRING THEM IN", PASTOR ADVISES

St. Jacob's Reformed Church Pastor Is Mission Speaker

"Go out and bring in those who do not go to church" was the admonition given by Rev. Ray Klingaman, pastor of St. Jacob's Reformed church, north of Lisbon, in a talk to members of the Women's Missionary society at a meeting Thursday afternoon at the church. Rev. Klingaman used for his theme, "Back to God," and he spoke of the need of a closer grip on the eternal.

Two-Fold Motive

The speaker gave a two-fold motive for getting others into the church—that of one flock and one shepherd. "It is a real test to be interested in some one interested in us," he said.

The two methods suggested by the speaker for bringing others were prayer and fellowship.

Rev. Klingaman believes that the fellowship of the church should be made so magnetic that people could not stay away.

Reviewing of eight chapters from the study book "Eastern Women Today and Tomorrow" formed a part of the program, which was in charge of Mrs. Rosco Halverstad.

Officers elected at this meeting are: President, Mrs. Irving Me-

Keep Man Alive So He May Die In Chair

(By Associated Press)
MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., March 2.—Harley Edwards, a wife killer who "couldn't stand the thought of going to the electric chair," went there today at 12:05 a. m. Three minutes later he was dead.

He had tried to escape it by suicide, and almost succeeded. With pieces of lenses from his broken eyeglasses, he slit both wrists. He had lost much blood when guards found him on the floor of his cell early yesterday morning.

"I want to die this way," he pleaded. "I can't stand the thought of going to the chair, don't save me for that."

But they did save him. Doctors halted the blood flow. A prisoner gave a pint of blood for a transfusion. The wounded wrists were bandaged.

At midnight he walked steadily to the execution chamber.

They asked him, as the electrodes were applied, if he had anything to say. He did not reply. The current was turned on.

Edwards, who was 39 and lived at Mitchell, Ind., had held hopes of a commutation of his death sentence, but the governor declined to interfere.

Chassis Is Wrecked

LISBON, March 2.—A new international truck chassis, being towed from Ft. Wayne, Ind., to Philadelphia, Pa., was wrecked on the Lincoln highway three miles west of here when the trailer truck chassis skidded off the road and struck a tree.

The wrecked truck was towed here, and partially repaired, after which it was returned to the Ft. Wayne factory.

First Lady Proves Worthy of Her Name

The nation's first lady, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, has proved worthy of her name during her first year in the White House, attaining a prominence that approximates that of the President. She is shown above as the first President's wife to (1) ride in a plane (she has been dubbed an air commuter), (2) hold regular press conferences, (3) listen to the President's Congressional addresses (she is pictured knitting in the gallery, with Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr.), and (4) she has taken an active part in relief work for unemployed. Below, left, is Mrs. Roosevelt in an informal pose photographed in the White House gardens.

Salem Faces Youngstown Chaney In Tourney Contest

CARNERA RETAINS TITLE IN DECISIVE WIN OVER LOUGHRAN

FAVORITES TRIUMPH IN THURSDAY TILTS; LISBON HI DEFEATED

The sectional basketball tournament at Youngstown nears the grand finale as eight teams, victorious in second round contests, will meet in important duels at the East gymnasium tonight.

Salem's varsity quintet, triumphant over two week foes in early games of the competition, tackles Youngstown Chaney in the opening tilt at 7 p. m.

The Quakers won over the Youngstowners, 30-22, in a regular season tilt but considerable doubt hovers over the outcome of tonight's battle between the two schools.

Quakers Should Win

Counting somewhat in the two previous tournament battles against the High and Campbell Memorials, the Quakers have yet to put a convincing game but the odds should be able to triumph over Chaney and continue on to the semi-finals which will be played Saturday afternoon.

While Salem was forced to the limit to lick the unheralded Memorial five, 29-19, Wednesday night, Chaney looked strong in easily defeating Boardman High, 37-27, Tuesday.

Salem was attacked with apparent ease in spite of the absence of Trickett, Chaney's star center who is out for the season because of a knee injury.

Chaney won four games and lost 15 during the current campaign.

Coach Ches McPhee will use as his center, Metro Sencysak at the pivot post while Ash, Negro, and Scott, expert, and Baker will be at the forwards. Patterson, who played a great game against Boardman and Lieberman, steady performer who played the important role in the triumph, will be at guards.

In reserve McPhee will have Hoot, Kabeals and other capable reserves.

Salem Starters Uncertain

Salem's starting five is a matter of conjecture in that Brown is considering several changes seriously. The squad, however, will be picked from Karcher, Zelle, Cope and Miller, all forwards, Sidener at center and McCleskey, Pukalski or Bak at guards.

Youngstown-Scienceville, sensationally impressive in a 36-16 win over Struthers Wednesday, will take Hubbard High in the second game on tonight's schedule. It's expected at 7:50 and the winner of the clash will oppose the victor in the Youngstown-Sci. duel in semi-finals at 9 p. m. Saturday.

The service again will be provided to the tournament for Salem students and fans. Faculty Manager Fred Cope announced that a bus will leave from Salem High at 7:30 tonight. All persons planning to attend the tournament should get to the high school and make reservations.

At Salem was tonight the service will be continued for tomorrow's games with buses leaving at 1 p. m. Reservations must be made for the games also, Cope said.

Games tomorrow will not return and after games scheduled at 7:30 and 9:30. The round of 16 is offered for 25 cents.

Favorites triumphed in contest Thursday night with Newton Falls, Sebring, Youngstown and Youngstown South making decisions.

Newton Falls Had an Easy Time

Trimming Lisbon High, 37-32, while Sebring was forced to the limit to gain a 30-29 verdict over an unexpectedly strong Girard five.

Raven won over Niles, 37-24, and South beat Brookfield, 34-27.

Newton Falls and South collide in tonight's battle at 8:40 while Sebring will tackle Raven at 9:30.

Salem, Scienceville, South and Raven are the favored teams in tonight's battles.

The schedule for the tournament tonight and tomorrow follows:

Tonight

7:00—Salem vs. Chaney; 7:50—Hubbard vs. Scienceville; 8:40—Newton Falls vs. South; 9:30—Sebring vs. Raven.

Saturday

2:00—Winner Salem-Chaney vs. winner Scienceville-Hubbard; 2:50—winner Newton Falls-South vs. winner Sebring-Raven.

7:30—Two losers in afternoon games meet for consolation title; 8:30—two winners in semi-finals clash for tourney title.

Consolation winner, champion and runner-up go to Akron next week.

Lisbon High Star Captures Scoring Title In District Tri-County Loop

Setting a new individual scoring mark of 143 points, Ralph Vanaman, veteran Lisbon high easily captured scoring honors of the Tri-County League for the 1933-34 campaign.

In registering 55 field goals and 33 free tosses for a total of 143 points in 18 games, Vanaman broke a mark of 141 points made by David Linden, Boardman High forward, last season. However, Linden registered his total in only 14 games. Last season, Vanaman finished third among the scorers with 116 points in 16 battles.

Sebring Star Second

Franklin Fowler of Sebring who finished in the runnerup position with 111 points also bettered his mark of a year ago. Last season, Fowler ranked fourth with 100 points.

Four other players finished over the century mark in points. William Trickett of East Palestine was third with 107 and he was followed by Weida of Louisville, 104 and Rogers of Sebring and Nichols of Minerva, both 100.

Scene of College Gas Fatality

Theta Chi fraternity house at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., where nine students died of carbon monoxide poisoning. The deadly gas penetrated the dormitory from the basement where a furnace pipe had become disconnected. The fact that all dormitory windows were closed owing to zero temperature contributed to the deadly effect of the gas.

SYNOPSIS
Stanley Paige, beautiful, young society girl, is left penniless when her lawyer speculates with her money and loses. Stanley, however, cares little for the money, feeling that she has everything in the love of Stanley. When Stanley breaks their engagement saying it would be impossible to marry on his income, she is heartbroken. Rather than accept aid from her wealthy friends, Stanley rents an inexpensive furnished room and disappears from her exclusive circle to try and make her own way. Her friends agree that a better way would have been to marry Handsome Perry Devereux, but Stanley cannot forget Drew. Then one day she meets John Harmon, a struggling young author. A strong friendship ensues and they become very necessary to one another. John Harmon is in love with Stanley but refrains from telling her because of Drew. As time passes, his kindness and consideration win Stanley's affection and they are married. Thinking only of Stanley's happiness, John Harmon makes an agreement with her that, if the time should ever come when they cannot give each other the wonderful companionship and understanding they have now, they must end their relationship.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
The room grew cold and the fire burned low—somewhere a clock struck a solitary hour.
John Harmon jumped to his feet. It's another day, Stanley, and there are shadows in the corners and sweeter ones under your eyes. You ought to be in bed."
He walked across the room, turned down the covers on the wide studio bed, went on into the bathroom and started the water running in the tub. And all the time he whistled softly—and determinedly. "She's so little," he thought desperately, doing things with his shoving brush, "so little and so heartbreakingly sweet. And she doesn't love me—enough."
Stanley sat quite still in the wing chair where he had left her, her slim legs curled up beneath her, her cheek resting on her hand. And quite suddenly she knew that she was badly frightened. Her heart seemed an enormous, swollen thing in her breast, her hands and feet were icy cold and her legs shook painfully. All the peace and security and happiness she had fought for so desperately during these last months, and had finally found in the depths of John Harmon's steady brown eyes, in the touch of his firm hands, in the sound of his clear, eager young voice, seemed suddenly to have deserted her. It was gone, leaving her crouched here, cold and panic-stricken. What was this thing she had done? Loving one man, hopelessly, she had married another in the pathetic belief that—what was it John Harmon had called it?—"companionship, understanding, tenderness" could take the place of this other thing—this emotion which needed no explaining, which brooked no refusal, which held her and would not let her go. She had thought to

Why, we even used to believe in witches!

There was a time, right in this country, when a large part of the population were superstitious about the poor wretches called witches. It was a "belief" handed down.
This same misbelief used to be true of Beet Sugar. Folks thought cane sugar was better.
Now every well informed housewife knows that there is not a particle of difference. Beet Sugar Made in Ohio, Indiana or Michigan is clean, wholesome and 100% pure.
Your own farmers and wage earners raise your sugar beet crop. They need your support now.
Say to your grocer "Give me Beet Sugar Made in Ohio, Indiana or Michigan and no other kind." This cooperation will not cost you an extra penny.

find happiness in a gentle love and a gentle marriage—and she had reckoned without passion. Suddenly Drew Armitage's eyes mocked her in the little blue flames of the smoldering fire. "It would not have been like this you would have come to your wedding night with me, dearest dear. Can you be satisfied with less?" She buried her face in her hands.
John Harmon came back into the room. He wore a striped flannel bathrobe and smelled of shaving cream and tooth-paste.
Stanley sat quite still and watched him come toward her, her eyes wide and dark with dread, and fear, and startled uncertainty.
"Your tub's ready — better hop into it," he bent over her and kissed her lips lightly, avoiding her eyes. He could not look at Stanley's eyes just then, could not face what he knew he would find in them.
He straightened, walked quickly to the door of the room that was to be his study. "Good night, Stanley—I'm bunking in here." He smiled at her across the room, then opened the door and closed it gently behind him.
She had tried to speak but her lips had refused to obey her. She had simply sat there and her eyes had clung to his and deepened and softened and tried to tell him things that he had made everything all right, that she was no longer frightened, that she loved him.
She jumped up and ran into the bathroom. The tub was full of warm water; her nightgown, a fragile thing she had brought from France, hung on the bathroom door, over a chair lay a pink woolly robe, a gift from Valerie.
The warm water felt deliciously good and later, when she brushed her hair before the small mirror, she discovered that her eyes were deeply gray, and soft with a sort of misty radiance. For a long time she continued to stare at herself, at her eyes which had lost all their young fear and dread and reflected nothing but sudden wisdom and complete understanding; when she finally turned off the light and moved away from the mirror, a little smile lay very tenderly on her lips.
She walked quietly to the study door, pushed it open, and went in. "I'm bunking in here, too," she said softly, a thin, sweet quiver in her voice.
In the ribbon of moonlight that drifted in through the open window, she saw John Harmon's face quite clearly; there were tears in his eyes and tears lay wet on his face.
"I'm going for a walk—see you later," Stanley left this information at John Harmon's door and went out into the crisp afternoon sunshine. She walked quickly, her hands thrust into the pockets of her tweed coat. There were things to be thought out—emotions to be sorted over and put in order. Like all people who had grown up much alone spiritually, Stanley was an introspective person—she lived intensely with her emotional reactions. They were important to her. They were separate from her. It was as if she stood apart from them and saw them as belonging to someone else and yet affecting her deeply.
This afternoon she had much to

Cocktail Coxcomb

It seems that milady's hair must be arranged in a certain manner in order that she can enjoy her afternoon cocktail. Here Bette Davis, screen star, displays the correct coiffure for cocktail hour. Its main feature is a curl which rolls across the head over the left eye.

It was in a little shop window in Fourteenth Street, that she noticed a neatly printed sign. "Assistant needed." She paused suddenly to look at the shop. It was narrow and deep and pressed in between two bigger, more important looking buildings, like a shy child dragged along between two indifferent, and slightly contemptuous, older children. It was a bookshop and in its window were displayed a number of old volumes, a few prints, a first edition, a set of Dante's "Divine Comedy" bound in dull blue leather.
She went in quickly. Found the interior dim, permeated with the smell of old books, books which had mellowed and dried and gained a potency from being left undisturbed to ripen.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—The voice of Harvard's beloved "Copey"—Charles Townsend Copeland, Boylston professor-emeritus of rhetoric and oratory—has been preserved for future generations of Harvard students. Through the joint efforts of Prof. Frederick C. Packard, head of the public speaking department at Harvard, and the University Press, phonograph recordings of some of "Copey's" famous readings have been made. One record is a reading from Chapters 6 and 7 of the Book of Revelations.

MONTREAL—Merrickville, Ont., has a real "Pooh Bah" in Carman Knapp. Although he was appointed to act as village constable, he has the additional duties of assessor, caretaker of the fire hall, dog tax collector, sanitary inspector, overseer of the town hall, poll tax collector, drier of the first hose, generalissimo of the town lights and charge of all street work. His salary is $50 per month.

U. S. Civil Service Will Hold Exams

The United States Civil Service commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:
 Assistant commissioner of labor statistics, $6,500 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1/2 per cent. Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.
 Applicants must have had education and experience of such length and quality and such personal qualifications as to demonstrate their ability to perform the duties, which include the following: To cooperate with and assist the commissioner in formulating, organizing, and administering economic and statistical projects in the field of labor; to direct the activities of the technical staff of economists and statisticians, and allied duties.

Educational officer (Food and Drugs), $3,800 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1/2 per cent. Food and Drug Administration Department of Agriculture.
 Applicants must have been graduated with a bachelor's degree from a college or university of recognized standing. In addition, they must have had at least five years of progressive experience in preparing illustrative and descriptive material including food and drug advertising, designed for the information and guidance of consumers and producers.
 All states except Delaware, Iowa, Maryland, Vermont, Virginia, and the District of Columbia have received less than their share of appointments in the apportioned departmental service at Washington.
 Full information may be obtained from P. O. Heston, secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the postoffice.

PLENTY OF MONEY —For Buyers—

THE TIME IS RIPE for consumers to buy. Price trends are upward. And once well under way, they will continue upward for a long time to come.

NEVER BEFORE in the memory of this generation have there been so many desirable things at such low prices.

SHOP AROUND . . . look into the store windows . . . scrutinize the advertising columns . . . consult the markets . . . attend public sales . . . and observe the sound values that prevail.

BARGAINS GALORE are to be had in all lines. There are bargains in apparel . . . food . . . furniture . . . supplies . . . homes . . . appliances . . . farms . . . equipment . . . and whatnot.

TODAY'S MARKET is decidedly a Buyer's Market . . . and no sharp bargaining is needed to get good values . . . any man with cash in his pocket can get his money's worth . . . blindfolded.

TO HELP CONSUMERS gain some of these unusual values . . . to assist its customers in buying at bottom prices . . . The City Loan is here to supply the money.

UP TO NOW The City Loan had advised people to use its service as a means of paying off debts . . . to concentrate their obligations all in one loan . . . to have Just One Place To Pay.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE have virtually "borrowed themselves out of debt" by using this method. And this service is still open to those who wish to use its beneficial results.

BUT RIGHT NOW is the golden opportunity for buyers . . . and The City Loan considers it timely to stress this fact to the buying public . . . to extend its full financial resources to consumers so they can buy.

GEORGE BORTS
 CITY LOAN MANAGER

MANY BUYERS have already obtained loans from The City Loan for this very purpose. Low-dollar purchases have been made of automobiles . . . live stock . . . machinery . . . merchandise.

SOME WHO were formerly salary and wage earners have borrowed enough money from The City Loan to buy a business of their own . . . become employers themselves.

ANY GOOD CASH BUYER can afford to borrow money at The City Loan, and get the benefit of cash prices and discounts, rather than accept the average credit terms.

LOANS ARE MADE on your signature and security . . . in amounts of $25 to $1000 . . . on terms that are in keeping with your exact circumstances and income.

CONSULT THIS CHART . . . select the loan that will enable you to carry out your plans . . . come to The City Loan and get the money . . . go out and buy while the market is still in your favor.
